Hospitality H1 2022

MARKET SUMMARY & OUTLOOK

	YoY Chg	12-Mo. Forecast
Investment Trends	▲	▬	Transaction volumes remained stagnant during H1 2022 (-0.2% vs. H1 2021), constrained by rising financing and operating costs, fears over consumer confidence, and a lack of willing sellers. A significant amount of dry powder remains to be deployed.
Prime Yields	▬	▲	Growing interest rates and uncertainty are putting upward pressure on yields. However, this has been moderated by the improving hotel cash flows and a wall of capital looking for opportunities, especially in core markets.
Market Performance	▲	▲	Hotels have benefited from a robust performance recovery during H1 2022, driven by strong ADR growth. The European RevPAR surpassed 2019 levels in May (+6%) and June (+10%). This is expected to continue, albeit at a slower pace.
Supply	▲	▲	The hotel pipeline across Europe is experiencing notable delays and cancellations due to rising construction costs and a lack of financing. Thus, the y-o-y project openings rate dropped and is expected to remain low until the year-end.
Demand	▲	▲	Driven by the leisure and domestic segments, demand has bounced back in H1 2022, despite the increasing costs. International and corporate travel has also started to pick up, although this might be dampened by the economic and geopolitical concerns.
